Every man remembers his first time- dressing as a woman. In these eight stories, men make their first change under a variety of circumstances, but all are lucky enough to find a happy ending waiting for them on the other side of the gender divide.

Making Payments: Mark has a crush on his roommate Rebecca, so he is willing to do anything to be able to remain in their apartment together. When they can't make rent, anything includes dressing as a woman and providing pleasure to their landlord.

Making Repairs: Carl barely pays any attention when his roommate mentions the sink is broken. He is too focused on having the apartment to himself for the weekend. But when Carla, Carl's en femme persona, wakes up to discover a repairman in the house, she seizes the unexpected opportunity to take her transformation to the next level.

Making the Grade: Liam's best friend and crush Skylar's brother is in danger of failing out of school, and she needs someone to pretend to be her mom for a meeting with the principal. Remembering that Liam once dressed as a girl for Halloween, she pushed him to do it, and he agrees in return for a date. But the principal quickly discovers Liam's secret and blackmails him into providing a blowjob.

Making the Play: Lane really wants a part in the college production of Macbeth, and he's even willing to entertain the thought of playing Lady Macbeth when Professor Dean asks him to dress up in drag to tryout. Lane will do anything to get the role, even if it means dropping to his knees from some reason other than begging for the role.

Making the Deal: Andy's boss Calvin keeps stealing his commissions at the car lot where he works. When Andy confronts Calvin, Calvin offers him a deal. If Andy will be Calvin's sissy for one night, he'll let Andy start earning his own commissions.

Making the Trade: Andrew's girlfriend Melissa wants him to try dressing up as a woman, and he can't say no to her. When she dresses in his clothing with a strap-on underneath, she wants him to let her take things a little further. Andrew decides to offer a trade, something he's always wanted for something she wants. Andrew offers an ass for an ass.

Making It Up: Kelly knows he never should have cheated on his girlfriend with the girl from the bar, and now he has to find a way to make it up to Karen. Before Karen will forgive him, she insists he prove that all men are vulnerable to seduction when they're drunk. Part of her plan involves dressing Kelly as a woman, and Kelly knows he has to go along to get along. But when Kelly discovers that he's expected to handle the barroom seduction, he balks until Karen threatens to leave him.

Making Over: Geoffrey's two new friends Gina and Joanne promise that if he lets them make him over, he'll get laid before the night is through. Geoffrey isn't sure there is anything they can do to make him a handsome man, but he decides to trust them. When he falls asleep halfway through the process, he wakes up to find that they've made him a beautiful woman instead of a handsome man. At first he's unsure how he feels about it, but when Gina's good-looking boyfriend tells him how gorgeous he looks, Geoffrey decides to thank Ben for the compliment. The best way to show gratitude is to use his mouth some way other than just saying "thank you."
