Asha is blessed with the willpower of her Cherokee ancesters, which serves her well when she risks her life to go out West. When responding to an ad from a male widower seeking a wife she dreams of a warm and loving home for Christmas. Michael cannot come to terms with her past and she finds herself desperate for a miracle.

Asha

I setmy travels out into the wild West in the cold Christmas winter. I've paid my dues in life and this mail order bride ad was my ticket to a new life….or so I thought…

Certainly I didn’t expect applause and flowers at the door step of a widower but I never imagined such a harsh embrace! Have I made the biggest mistake of my life?

Micheal

I cant' remember the last time I laid my head down to pray...the terrible death of my precious jewel changed my inner being....I gave up on my faith and love only to find my heart filled with hatred and remorse for those men who took my wife away.

My daughter wished for a mother for Christmas so I sent for a mail order bride in hopes she could at least help fill a void in my daughter’s life.

Every time I looked at her tan skin and those long dark strands, I was reminded of the fact that she came from the same tribe of those ruthless men who murdered my wife! She should never have come.
