Women and Economics: A Study of the Economic Relation Between Men and Women As a Factor in Social Evolution (Classic Reprint) Charlotte Perkins Gilman
In dark and early ages, through the primal forests faring, Ere the soul came shining into prehistoric night, Twofold man was equal; they were comrades dear and daring. Living wild and free together in unreasoning delight. Ere the soul was born and consciousness came slowly, Ere the soul was born, to man and woman, too, Ere he found the Tree of Knowledge, that awful tree and holy, Ere he knew he felt, and knew he knew. Then said he to Pain, I am wise now, and I know you! No more will I suffer while power and wisdom last! Then said he to Pleasure, I am strong, and I will show you That the will of man can seize you, aye, and hold you fast! Food he ate for pleasure, and wine he drank for gladness. And woman? Ah, the woman! the crown of all delight! His now, he knew it! He was strong to madness In that early dawning after prehistoric night.
