An excerpt from the book: The key to being happy, regardless of type, is to have a purpose in life — a task where you feel useful and successful with meaningful relationships. A good career is especially important for an ISTP. They need a work environment where they can use their hands, create, fix things, solve problems, and enjoy independence. They also need good relationships with people who respect their independence and communication style even if they are loners. One of the most important things an ISTP needs is a good job. Their desire for independence might make them excel as a freelancer or running their own business. However, they can also be happy in a traditional work environment for as long as they are given freedom and are not bogged down with bureaucracy. The important thing is that the ISTP person has a chance to play — learn how things work, build things, fix things, and use his hands. An ISTP needs a good job because they cannot stomach the idea of spending a large portion of their time on a useless task. They will promptly quit any job that is not a good use of their time. They will become aggravated over bureaucracy and waste. Without a job that complements their personality, an ISTP will be unhappy.
